An act of rebellion over 50 years in the future, our protagonist escaped with his beloved from the Owińska mental hospital in Poland. This mysterious place is probably the last place where our protagonist knew his beloved as a child. Now he tries to track her back. To find her he needs to travel back in time, but that is not an easy task - as you can easily guess. The brain-damaged man keeps having flashbacks to his time in the Owińska hospital from the beginning of the WW II. Now his perception will need some time to reestablish itself. It is up to him to fully relive his life and find out what is really going on in his past. He needs to use time travel, unconventional sensory stimuli and a little help from his friends from a history forum. This is where the story begins. First third or even 70% Starting with a flashback in Poland, he will find himself in a science fiction story. These are his first steps on the quest of his beloved. Middle third or more In this, the most dramatic part of the game, he will explore the paradox of time and the possibility of death in relation to the termination of human life. This is where the story of Rosemary's Fate is written in classic science fiction manner. Ending Tom and Mary survive their journey and discover the starting point of their beloved. Their quest to find the best ending of their adventure will test their luck and become as essential for their survival as the intense survival puzzles they will face. They will need to learn more about this place and its inhabitants that seems to be filled with ghosts and enemies. Will they get into a war where they would have to fight to live? Making Of Rosemary's Fate Life Worth Living: Made for people like us Both of us have had strong emotion over our friend and neighbor who is facing quite a depressing time. We decided to make a game about this kind of situation which we both have experienced. The game does not cover all actual issues. Our intention was just to give the player time and space to immerse themselves fully in the different emotions. But still, there is a lot to be done and we are not the only ones, so we could not spare all our time to work on the game. We plan to carry out the work on top of our normal duties. We hope, that eventually the game will be finished. The main story itself is fully written.

Dangerous Sea Area 2022 [New]

The classic game is a unique tiled-based puzzle. You need to connect the tiles to create the same matching pairs. But don't forget about the rules. If you move the tiles manually, you won't be able to escape from deadly traps. And if you get stuck in one place, you'll have to solve the puzzle again, passing through the time. You can use hints to help you solve the puzzle in a limited number of your attempts. A well-organized collection of pairs of tiles is the key to victory. Your goal is to collect as many types of objects as you can.

Q: About the rank of the group of symmetries of the 3-dimensional cube
The wiki page for the order of the symmetry group of the cube gives the rank for the 3d case as $6$. Does anyone know how to compute this?
A: Edit: Mathematica's function: `Rank[Subgroup[TransitivePermutationGroup[3], SymmetryGroup[Cube[]]]]` Returns $6$. Here is my (only slightly less quickly computed) answer. The figure below shows the number of symmetries in one degree of freedom. The symmetry groups have rank $1$ ($6$), $2$ ($24$), $3$ ($288$), and $4$ ($6912$). These symmetry groups were determined by writing up the $16$ rotations and permutations that form the symmetry group, and looking at their intersection with the perpendicular space. Since the symmetry group is transitive, all rotations and permutations are equivalent, and the number of degrees of freedom is $4$. The answer for the number of symmetries is thus:

$1+4+4+4+4+4+4+4=16+16+16+16+16+16+16=256=2^4$
 By Cayley, the symmetry group is isomorphic to a subgroup of the group of rotations. The intersection of the group of rotations with the perpendicular space is actually a copy of  $\mathbb{Z}_2$ , so we have the groups of symmetries:  $\mathbb{Z}_2 \times \mathbb{Z}_2 \times \mathbb{Z}_2 \times \mathbb{Z}_2$

NEW KING is a strategy game with the theme of medieval management and adventure. Players will play as a newly enthroned king to protect his land and people from the invasion of the orcs. In this process, players will lead the people and soldiers on foot through the towns, support each other, defend the orcs, develop the cities and eventually kill all orc warlords who guard the lair to end the invasion. Players need to be careful to maintain the kingdom's money and prestige. Although these are important resources for development, the game will fail when these two resources bottom.

Game Features: Each town is blocked by long distances, and roads at night will be very dangerous. In the far distance that you can't see, the orcs are invading your land. Bankrupt and lack of prestige will cause players to lose the throne, and you will not want these things to happen. Not all towns are fully functional. Recruit loyal warriors and launch an expedition to the orc's lair. "I born with destiny, my life for glory."

What's new:

: A Trip Down Memory Lane Of Tokyo's Golden Era On this edition of Good Men Project Weekly, the reader email is inspired by two classic Japanese gangsters from the golden era: Tatsuo Minami (see image above) in 1949 and Masao Yamamoto in 1966. 42-year-old Katsunori "Choto" Shimoda, from the banner for Mr. Masao Yamamoto, is a "salaryman" at a software development company. He noticed an aging man staring at his screen in the cafeteria. "I thought about what he was thinking." "He became a salaryman with hope that he could retire with security, but here he is—it had only taken 15 years." "As a retired man, he may choose not to start work again, and not to live with us." "It was true what he was thinking." "I decided to visit him at his home." By the way, he lives in a brand new suburban high-rise. He met the old man at his door. "Your wife is still young, so it's hard for her to work, though she's worried about us." Shimoda spoke easy. He introduced himself and told the man's address. "I had hoped to see you when my wife and I started a new life." Shimoda laughed at his old man taking a careful look at him. "I know. I have a hard time fighting depression. It's so funny. You're fine," he joked. The retirement man was Shinmin Kimura. Their 2nd common household name is Kimura. "An unexpected visit...I'm visiting you now." "But you never turned to me." Actually, he did, but he didn't need to come to the house. "Please, when you're no longer well, just say it." "Why, you don't need to come all this way. It's not good. My wife thinks the same way." "Mr. Kimura, even if you were
