"I really can't recommend [the Elden Ring] enough. Its story is engaging, the gameplay is addicting, and the combat is a blast, with skills that feel truly valuable." - Sirlin on Reddit "This game will suck you in and make you want to play more and more. From what I played on the iPhone to the Switch, Elden Ring is one of the best games I've played this year." - "I wasn't expecting to play another game like this for a while, but it's the sort of thing I enjoy coming back to. It's an RPG that has all the depth you'd expect from a classic role playing game. But more importantly, the game is all about honing your skills and building your party at your own pace, something that makes it truly special." - "I was so excited when I was reading the description in the mobile game and then bought the Switch version and was just as excited. Am I the only person who was hoping for a Zelda-like game for the Switch? I hope so, because this game feels a lot like Link's Awakening and The Legend of Zelda." - Switchtrails

Get the How to Minecraft Mods and Resource PacksCollection for FREE. How to Mine Lead Ore A lot of the maps you find yourself on along the side of the way won't have any ore, or if they do, there is not enough to warrant mining by foot. However, lead ore can be found by mining in the overworld. A good indication that you have found what you think you are looking for is when you begin to collect a certain amount of cobblestone in a day. Another way to find lead ore is to go in search of water sources, as the ore can be found as one descends into the depths of the world. It is important to observe the world around you when entering a new area, as some minerals deserve more attention in regards to their location than others. A tip: go far from the first spawn location into the world and there is a chance that there is lead ore just waiting for you. How to Make ItScale This is basically the difference between using a map with a grid size of 128x128 and something with a grid size of 64x32. To make it scale is easy, this is all you have to do: 1. Get a map. 2. If the map has a grid size of 128x128, save it to the world and mark it as a world map. 3. If the map has a grid size of 64x32, save it to the world and mark it as a Nether.
